Timestamp	Did you find it difficult to navigate the website?	What are your thoughts on the overall look of the website?
2020/09/24 12:10:12 PM GMT+12	Nope	Clean, simple and modern
2020/09/24 12:14:22 PM GMT+12	No	The website is clean and simplistic
2020/09/24 1:16:19 PM GMT+12	No, it's a clean and easy layout to follow.	Clean and clear with a nice colour scheme and flow. Needs more consistency on font size in the intro page.
2020/09/24 3:49:04 PM GMT+12	Whilst navigating through the website, it was seemingly easy as it had a flurry of helpful labels. The headings and labels were clear and easy on the eyes.	It is very welcoming, because it had set a vibe that was very comforting.

What stood out to you the most and why?	What would you changed and why?	Did you feel as though the fonts were readable? and why?
Sheer simplicity.	The plant pictures. Some have backgrounds that meld into the white website background while others have a more 'homely' background/feel.	Yes cause they're simple, bold and succinct
The Colours. The colours that were used were soft and relevant to the subject matter.	The images. It would be good if the images were all taken in the same setting and were the same quality as the others just to give them more continuity of each other.	Yes, for the text describing the plants they are readable and clean.
How the information was navigated and portrayed in the plant index with subtle colours and symbols.	Making the font size slightly larger to be more legible and consistent.	It was clean and easy to read.
What stood out to me was the nice colour palette as it had an earthy feel and was fitting with the content of your website.	You can add better transitions when clicking the plant information as it would look better visually	Yes the fonts were readable as they were simple to ready and not too intricate or fancy.

Did you think the layout of the website was too spaced out or too crowded?	Did you feel that the information given was sufficient/relevant?
I think it's at a good spot but I think the pictures could be grouped closer so it doesn't match the border of the text box as well.	Considering the fact that all info sheets are copy pasted if we judge from your intent then I think that the information was both sufficient and relevant. Simplicity to the max.
The website was spaced out pretty well, I don't think it was too crowded or spaced out.	Yes, it was informative and was not too wordy and really makes it easy for those who are researching about plants.
The layout is good.	I was able to follow the information but the plant index needs a legend to be fully understood.
It was a bit spaced out in the plant index page and there were a lot of white space between each plants. They could be slightly closer to each other.	From reading the titles and briefly reading the content, I think the information given on the website was helpful, useful and relevant as you covered all the common/basic information about plants.

Are there any other comments about the website you would like to mention? (Optional)

I suggest that you could clearly state in the home page of the website what type of plants you are promoting. It was just all indoor plants or outdoor plants or both.
